

Wayne Humphires

Wayne has been an avid naturalist, ornithologist, mycologist, kayaker, and wilderness hiker for over 40 years. Since retiring from a very successful career in the private sector, he has formalized his passion for nature by returning to university to recently complete a Masters in Environmental Studies at York University in Toronto, Canada. His focus on conservation policy related to the environmental impacts on seabirds off Newfoundland, Canada has resulted in him being asked to undertake speaking engagements on conservation policy to a number of notable conservation focussed organizations in Canada including Birds Canada and the Toronto Ornithological Club. Wayne continues his passion for nature by joining his son, Dr. Grant Humphries on his first penguin counting expedition to Antarctica through Oceanites.
